A FAIR THIS YEAR IS NOW ASSURED

And Everything Points to a Great Event.

SEPT. 24, 25, 26 AND 27

Will Be the Days Embracing the Fair—Fine Program
Being Arranged.

DR. L. B. BEAN IS IN CHARGE

With characteristic enterprise and civic pride, Dr. L. B. Bean, of Hartford, has secured the Ohio County Fair grounds and will give a fair this season of the kind which formerly made Ohio county famous. The exhibition will be held four days—September 24, 25, 26 and 27. This is an ideal season of the year and the date will conflict with no fair in this section of Kentucky except at Bowling Green—fifty miles away. The weather will in all likelihood be splendid, and there is no reason why vast crowds should not attend. The Owensboro Fair occurs just the week after.

Dr. Bean intends to make this fair equal if not surpass any former event of the kind. It is quite well known that Hartford has just about the prettiest and best arranged fair grounds in the State. The half-mile race track is a perfect one and anybody can stand flat-footed on any part of the grounds and see every step a horse takes. There is an abundance of shade, which overlaps the grandstand and the whole grounds, embracing twenty acres, are splendidly shaded.

Dr. Bean will at once begin work of repairing the grandstand, stalls and other buildings, also the track will be gotten in shape. There will be all kinds of show rings and premiums offered for farm products. A fine racing program will be arranged, with generous purses offered. Novel attractions of various kinds will be on hand and it will be an up-to-date affair in every respect. No pains will be spared to make it the equal of any fair that has been or will be held in this section of the State. Let the people of Ohio county get ready, for we are sure going to have a fair this year and it will be a memorable and worthy one in every respect.

It has been four years the coming fall since the last Ohio County Fair.

PUTS A STOP TO FUND
FOR WEDDING PRESENT

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 2.—President Wilson objects to the movement which was started in this city several days ago to raise a fund for the purchase of a wedding present for his daughter, Miss Jessie Wilson.

A letter to Mayor Preston received the other morning reads:

"The White House,
Washington, July 30, 1913.
My Dear Mr. Preston:

"The President's attention has been called to an article in one of the Baltimore papers concerning a contribution made to you by Mr. Ernest E. Nordenholz toward a fund for a present for Miss Wilson on the occasion of her marriage.

"While the President deeply appreciates the generous spirit which prompted Mr. Nordenholz to make this contribution, he greatly prefers that no fund be raised for this purpose. Will you not be good enough to notify Mr. Nordenholz and also have proper announcement made to this effect in the paper in question?"

"Sincerely yours,

"J. P. TUMULTY,

"Secretary to the President."

Miss Wilson will be married in the fall to Francis R. Sayre.

PERHAPS ARE KENTUCKY'S YOUNGEST GRANDPARENTS

Newport, Ky., Aug. 2.—When the stork brought a boy to the home of Mr. George Frommell, in Newport, today, the "old bird" also brought the distinction, as believed, to Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Droste of being the youngest grandparents in the State of Kentucky. Mr. and Mrs. Droste are the parents of Mrs. Frommell and they are 35 and 34 years old, respectively. Mr. Droste is a well known insurance man and he was taken by surprise when he was informed that he is now a part of Kentucky's history. He is proud of the honor and has a good right to be pleased with the grandchild, as he is a handsome boy.

Both mother and child are doing well. When the youngster was born there were present five generations of the Droste family. The father is 18 years old and the mother 17.

BEAVER DAM.

August 4.—The primary was very quiet in our town Saturday. Both parties seemed to be satisfied with the result.

Some of our people attended the family reunion at the home of Mr. W. H. Williams in Goshen neighborhood the 24, given in honor of Mrs. Mary Williams' 67th birthday. There were 81 people present on that occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Williams are growing old and their children have married and left them, but they were once more made happy by the presence of their children and a host of friends. It was to be regretted that Mrs. Williams' only living brother, Mr. Ab Chapman, could not be present, owing to his feeble health. Her sister, Mrs. Bina Iglehart, was present, but one other living sister, Mrs. Sallie Maddox, was not able to be there. Mr. Williams' brother, Elijah Williams, of Hartford, and Mr. Minn Williams, of that neighborhood, were present.

Mr. A. D. Taylor, who has been in the moving picture show business in Dyersburg, Tenn., has sold his business in that city. He has moved back to Beaver Dam and will open a studio here in the near future.

Mrs. S. P. Davidson and children, Poplar Bluff, Mo., are visiting the family of Mr. Gordon Young this week.

Misses Maude and Marie Harrison, of Habit, Ky., are the guests of Misses Bessie and Apple Alford this week.

Bro. A. L. Crabb and wife, of Paducah, Ky., were the guests of the family of Rev. A. B. Gardner a few days last week.

HOPKINSVILLE.

Aug. 3.—Mr. John Lankford, of White county, Ill., is visiting relatives in this community.

Rev. Birch Shields filled his regular appointment at Pond Run last Sunday and was elected another year as pastor of that church.

Mr. Jacob Coleman, of Texas, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Coleman, and Miss Polly Coleman.

Mrs. James Taylor, of Zion City, Ill., and sister, Miss Myrtle Miller, of Chicago, Ill., are visiting their aunt, Mrs. J. A. Miller, and other relatives of this community.

Mrs. Herbert King and son Paul, after a 3-weeks visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Taylor, returned home to East St. Louis last Monday.

Mr. Billy Johnson made a business trip to Hartford last Monday. Mrs. P. S. Coleman spent a few days with Mrs. Mary Barnett, of Beaver Dam, last week.

Our Sunday School, prayer meeting and singing are moving along nicely with good interest and attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Shull are visiting Mrs. Shull's sister, Mrs. Hiram Taylor, of Taylortown.

COURT ORDERS LASHES
APPLIED TO NEGRO BOY

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 2.—In Juvenile Court this morning Judge Percy Scott directed that thirteen lashes be applied to a 13-year-old negro boy charged with striking a 9-year-old boy in the face with a rock. The court directed that the lashes be applied at the Detention Home by the mother or grandmother of the boy. The court order also directs that the parents of the boy are to pay the medical bill incurred for treating the wounds of his victim.

GREAT BRITAIN OPENLY REFUSES

To Participate In Panama Exposition.

SURPRISE AT ANNOUNCEMENT

Canal Toll Question Ascribed
As Cause of J. Bull's Declination.

GERMANY ALSO SEEMS MIFFED

London, Aug. 2.—Great Britain has decided against participation in the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

Notification of this determination of the British Government was conveyed officially to Washington this week, the dispatch merely stating that Great Britain was not in a position to participate in the San Francisco Exposition. No reasons were given.

Both the British Foreign Office and Walter Hines Page, the United States Ambassador here, decline to discuss the matter or to reveal the cause of this reversal of the announcement made some time back that Great Britain had decided in principle to participate in the exposition.

It has been mooted for some time, however, that the dispute in regard to the Panama canal tolls might possibly lead to this result, and the present notification of non-participation is attributed to that cause.

Action Causes Surprise.

Washington, Aug. 2.—After exhibiting much concern over the places which would be assigned to prospective exhibitors by the management of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, the British Government finally has declined to participate.

The long delay in acting upon the invitation to participate in the fair, extended a year ago, has been the cause of deep concern to the management of the exposition, particularly as formidable opposition had likewise developed in Germany, where certain of the great trade associations, such as those representing the steel and iron manufacturers, had formally requested the German Government to decline the invitation.

In an unofficial way it is said that dissatisfaction on the part of the great commercial nations with certain features of the pending tariff bill, which they felt bore heavily upon their trade, was the reason for the attitude of covert hostility toward the San Francisco fair. But, as the Senate Finance Committee has amended the tariff bill in a manner thought to make it unobjectionable to those nations, it was fully expected that they would see their way clear to accept the invitations.

In the case of Great Britain, however, though the original cablegram of Ambassador Page, giving notice of the declination, has now been supplemented by a mail report dealing with the subject more fully, it is not yet positively known what basis of objection now remains. It is thought by officials, however, that while the reason assigned by the British Government is a belief that there have been too many such international expositions in recent years, the underlying objection is based upon the view of incongruity of British participation in an event designed to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal, while there is a dispute as to its free use.

DYNAMITE BURSTS IN A GAS POCKET

And Thirty Miners Perish
In Blast.

HEADS BLOWN FROM 6 BODIES

Bottom Of Shaft Like Fiery Furnace—Men Killed In Different Ways.

REAL STORY IS HARD TO TELL

Tower City, Penn., Aug. 2.—Thirty men are dead and as many more seriously injured as the result of an explosion of dynamite which occurred at the East Brookside Colliery in the west end of this county at noon to-day.

Ten tons of dynamite exploded, with a roar and a tremendous power which shook the massive mine pillars and props as though they were straws, and sent sheets of flame shooting along the gangways and breasts, seeking an outlet.

The dynamite burst a "pocket" of gas which had gathered since a fire boss made his inspection this morning, and a second and more deadly explosion occurred, overwhelming Superintendent John Lorenz and a rescuing party who had gone to the aid of the men injured in the first explosion.

For five minutes the bottom of the mine, which is 1,800 feet below the surface, reached by the deepest shaft in the anthracite region, looked like a fiery furnace with all the miners within reach of the flames lying prostrate on their faces, where they had thrown themselves to avoid breathing the flames.

The heat, however, either scorched the life out of most of these men, or the severe concussion and flying rock killed them.

A second rescue force succeeded in reaching the bodies of Superintendent Lorenz and Harry Schoffstall. Lorenz was brought to a hospital at Pottsville and it is said he will recover. He is not burned. Schoffstall, however, is said to be fatally injured.

The explosion set fire to the mine and the rescuing force in helmets, containing stored oxygen, was soon on the scene.

Officials of the Reading Company, after first doing all that could be done for the killed and injured, rushed its "fire car" to the scene of the accident and, under the personal direction of General Manager Richards, the flames were so circumscribed that danger of the fire spreading is passed.

There were enthusiastic shouts when Superintendent Lorenz and Foreman Schoffstall, with three miners, were brought to the surface. The miners revived almost as soon as they inhaled the fresh air.

Nine of the bodies of the dead were so scorched by the heat as to be unrecognizable, and the only way to ascertain their names will be by the records of the men who went down to work to-day.

The driving of the tunnel where the accident occurred was under the direction of private contractors, and most of the employees killed were working for these contractors. There were comparatively few employees of the coal company killed by the explosion.

Portland Brothers, contractors in charge of the tunnel, have driven some of the largest drainage tunnels in the anthracite region. Their list of employees was almost decimated by the accident.

Many bodies were terribly mutilated, the features being warped and disfigured by the terrific heat and cut and bruised by flying debris. Heads of six were missing.

One of the saddest phases of the accident is that most of the dead men were married and that the explosion leaves 40 orphans, nearly all of whom were absolutely dependent on their fathers for support.

It is possible that the real story of the explosion may never be known, as all who were in a position to know were killed.

others were suffocated by the after-damp which always follows an explosion in mines.

Ex-GOV. BECKHAM'S MOTHER
CLOSES BEAUTIFUL LIFE

Bardstown, Ky., Aug. 1.—More widely beloved than she ever knew, full of years and leaving behind a record of good deeds and kindly thoughts, Mrs. Julia W. Beckham, mother of former Gov. J. C. W. Beckham, died this morning at Wickland, her ancestral home, near Bardstown. Mrs. Beckham was in her eightieth year and had been ill for about three weeks, but her death was not expected until in the small hours to-day she was stricken much worse and passed away without suffering at 6 o'clock. Gov. Beckham was in Frankfurt, but drove to Bardstown in a motor car when the tidings of his mother's sudden turn for the worse reached him and arrived at Mrs. Beckham's bedside two hours before the end.

The mother, daughter and sister of Governors, Mrs. Beckham was one of the most prominently connected women in the State. She was the daughter of the late Gov. Charles A. Wickliffe, of Kentucky, and sister of the late Gov. Robert H. Wickliffe, of Louisiana. Her close family connections both by birth and marriage were of the most renowned Kentucky boasts of, but this distinction was the least of those which made Mrs. Beckham a beloved woman wherever the exigencies of life placed her. Nelson county was her home, but she was a widely traveled woman, and wherever her personality was known, it gathered by its magnificent magnetism and held by its deep and warm sympathy scores of admiring friends.

VOTERS AT FULTON CAST
BALLOTS FOR DEAD MAN

Hickman, Ky., Aug. 2.—While the remains of Judge H. F. Remley are being interred, his friends are at the polls voting for him.

Judge Remley, who was a candidate for the nomination as County Attorney, was killed last night when his horse plunged over an embankment and fell on its rider. The tragedy occurred while Judge Remley was on his way home from a political meeting. He had a large following of friends, all of whom declare they will vote for the dead man out of compliment to him.

As Judge Remley's name is on the ballot the votes so cast for him will be legal. If he should be declared the nominee of his party, it is expected Governor McCreary will be called upon to appoint somebody to make the race Judge Remley would have made had he lived.

After the funeral of Judge Remley this afternoon at 5 o'clock, the remains were taken to Columbus, Ky., twenty miles above here, for burial.

TWO JOINT DEBATES
AT WILLIAMS' GROVE

REBUFFS STILL HIT THE POLICY

Outlined By President In Mexican Trouble.

SENATE IS TO WINNOW GRAIN

From Chaff—Mrs. Madero Is To Relate Other Side
Of the Story.

DECISIVE FIGHT IS EXPECTED

Washington, Aug. 2.—The administration policy of conciliation in Mexico met with two rebuffs to-day.

First, General Carranza, the leader of the anti-Huerta factions in Mexico, declines firmly to be a party to any mediation plans in which Huerta enters as a factor.

Second, the Senate has taken the bit in its teeth, and will find all about the Mexican situation, as the State Department has declined, on the advice of the President, to send to the Senate the official documents on file there, which would clarify the situation.

The Senate will summon before it Mrs. Madero, Alfonso Madero and Colonel Eduardo Hay, military and diplomatic representative of the Constitutional party in Mexico.

Neither the State Department nor the White House has any answer to make or comment on the failure of the conciliation policy.

Secretary Bryan has no comment to make on any of the phases of the Mexican situation and on none of the facts presented to him. He announces his intention of going away on a tour to-morrow.

Some of the officials of the State Department took umbrage at the statement that Secretary Bryan has asked Congress for $100,000 to provide for a general hegira of American citizens out of Mexico.

These officials, Senator Bryan among them, adopted the peculiar view that his act was only in line with the policy of the Government which is carried out in the sporadic cases in which indigent or foreign stranded American citizens are brought home from foreign countries.

The reports of the State Department to-day say that a large number of revolutionists "conducting guerilla warfare" are "infesting Southern Leon" and the north and east of San Luis Potosi. The reports also show that the Carranza forces are about to attack the Federals at Monclova.

This is to be the decisive battle, according to the strategists of the War Department.

They say that if the Federals are beaten at Monclova they must return on Mexico City, and that the revolutionists by winning that battle have control of more than one half of Mexico.

Military men here say that Carranza, holding such a strong position, would not be likely to accept anything less than the removal of Huerta as the President of Mexico.

The action of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations in inviting enemies of Huerta to a hearing is the second step taken by that body within a few days indicating that it is not in entire accord with the President in the manner of treating the Mexican situation. Senators are less patient than the President, and a strong sentiment exists among them in favor of the adoption of drastic measures for the purpose of restoring order in the perturbed republic.

FEW ROAD FIGURES AS TO STATE AID

"Uncle Bill" Enlightens
His Friends

ON IMPORTANT PROPOSITION

Long Ago State Commenced
To Aid In Public Road Building Matter.

BEST PLAN OF ANY IS FOUND

As Uncle Bill came out of the post-office with a letter in his hand, the discussion of the tariff lulled, and one of the men yelled, "Uncle Bill—"

The old man's face wrinkled into a smile as he held up his hand and said, "Hold on, hold on, I know what you want to ask. You see this letter, it's got just the answer you want, I'll bet a hat." He pulled the letter from its envelope, adjusted his silver-rimmed spectacles and continued, "You recollect that about a week or ten days ago all of us here at the store was talking about State Aid for road building. Some of you fellows asked a whole lot of questions. One of 'em was, what some of the roads in this State cost the Government."

"Have you got the figures?"

"Yep, I just went home and wrote up to Frankfort and got 'em straight. Say, there're more of 'em and they're bigger than I thought they was. I'm going to read 'em out if you want 'em?"

"Sure we do"—and the group drew closer about Uncle Bill as he seated himself cautiously on a nail keg.

"Well, I find that way back in 1821 Kentucky gave $1,000 to improve the grade over Muldrow's Hill. That was part of the Lexington to Nashville road. But later when the people began to build sure enough good macadam roads, the State put the money up in big chunks. When they built the road from Lexington to Frankfort, she gave $78,122. That was 27 miles of road. Then here are the other roads:

"Frankfort to Louisville, 52 miles, $65,000; Covington to Lexington, 85 miles, $200,000; Louisville, Frankfort to Crab Orchard, 123 miles, $240,000; Louisville, Bardonia to Tennessee line, 144 miles, $500,000; Louisville, Bowling Green to Tennessee line, 154½ miles, $442,000.

"How much was that all together, Uncle Bill?"

"Wait, I just got this letter and I'll have to do some figuring," and he got a stub of a lead pencil from his vest pocket. After quite a time he announced with pride and satisfaction, "If you add in the $213,200 for the Maysville road, that makes $1,758,322 that was given in State Aid way back yonder before land was worth much and before there was any factories or big business to tax."

"Why do you reckon they done it, Uncle Bill?"

"Because they had more every day common horse sense than we got, I reckon. They was sharp enough to see that it wasn't any tax; but an investment to boost the price of their land."

"I reckon that's so, Uncle Bill." "Sure, it's so. The poorer your land the more you need a road to make it sell. If it's first-class land and off the road, you can sell it; but if it's poor and off the road, you're up against it. Most of our land—well, it's poor enough to need a road to make it sell for a good stiff price."

"Of course, everybody knows that good roads are needed and needed bad."

"Well, then, if all of us know we ought to have good roads, and we know they'd improve the price of land, all we got to do is to find out the cheapest way, ain't it?"

"Yep." "Well, then, if anybody's got a better and a easier way than State Aid, just trot it out and I'm for it all right."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. Apples vs. Tobacco.

In speaking of his success last year with his apple crop, County Clerk C. E. Sugr stated that his apples brought him five times as much as his tobacco would have brought on the same acreage. He placed about 500 barrels in cold storage and has sold every barrel and could have disposed of as many more. Between tobacco and apples Mr. Sugr says there is no comparison. He says fruit raising requires a lot of time and attention while the trees are young and afterward, but not one-half the work is required as on tobacco, and the returns will yield annually five times more than the weed.—[Henderson Gleaner.]

Costly Treatment.

"I was troubled with constipation and indigestion and spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and treatment," writes C. H. Hines, of Whitlow, Ark. "I went to a St. Louis hospital, also to a hospital in New Orleans, but no cure was effected. On returning home I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets, and worked right along. I used them for some time and am now all right." Sold by all dealers. m

ARREST REVEALS MAN'S DUAL LIFE

Lost Check Caused His Quick Downfall.

WAS FINE RELIGIOUS WORKER

Also Safe Blower, As Proven
By Stamps Found In His Suit Case.

WAS ENGAGED TO BE MARRIED

Montgomery, Ala., July 31.—Until Albert Driscoll Cammayer was arrested at Chattanooga on a charge that he blew open the safe of the Green Cove (Fla.) post-office he led a double life, that of a safe blower and a religious worker, according to Post-office inspectors, who came to Montgomery to-day to get information concerning Cammayer's alleged crimes in Alabama.

Cammayer, known in Alabama as Driscoll, had been recognized for several months as one of the best citizens of Green Cove. He had gone in the best society. He had formed the acquaintance of a Green Cove girl. They became engaged and preparations were made for the wedding.

On the night the post-office was broken open several hundred stamps and money were stolen. An investigation was started, but Cammayer, then going under that name, was not suspected. No trace of the safe blower could be found.

Post-office inspectors worked night and day, but their efforts revealed no hiding place for the robber. Then Cammayer went to Chattanooga as a representative of the Jefferson Powder Company, of Birmingham. Luck went against him, he lost his duplicate check and the railroad refused to give him his suit case.

He declared he could identify articles in the case and mentioned a suit of clothes, comb and brush and other articles. But he said nothing about $800 worth of stamps which were hidden in the bottom of the suit case.

Cammayer decided he ought to make a more thorough search for the check. He went to his hotel and found the lost slip, but in the meantime railroad officials made a thorough search of the suit case and found the stamps. Cammayer then produced the check and demanded the suit case.

Railroad officials could not understand why several thousand postage stamps were being carried around by Cammayer. Detectives were called and Cammayer was arrested.

Green Cove's office had been robbed a few weeks before, and investigations showed that the number of the stamps in Cammayer's possession corresponded with those stolen from the Florida post-office. Cammayer denied that he had robbed the post-office and maintained that he had purchased the stamps from a man in Jacksonville, Fla. He refused to furnish the name.

News of Cammayer's arrest went to Green Cove, where he was regarded as an upright citizen. Persons in his adopted home refused to believe he was interested in the robbery, and his fiancée declared Cammayer was a gentleman and she would stand by him.

Cammayer's fiancée is a daughter of a superintendent of a large plant in Florida, but Post-office inspectors have refused to make public her name.

Cammayer's name became linked with criminals first when he was convicted of robbing the safe of Hirscher Bros. in Montgomery in 1904. He was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary, but paroled by Governor O'Neal in 1911, when Wardens and guards at the penitentiary and many citizens reported that he had been converted and had become a religious worker.

Soon after being released Cammayer was employed by the Jefferson Powder Company, of Birmingham, as traveling representative, and it is alleged that he used his position to get explosives for his criminal operations.

Remarkable Cure of Dysentery.

"I was attacked with dysentery about July 15th, and used the doctor's medicine and other remedies with no relief, only getting worse all the time. I was unable to do anything and my weight dropped from 145 to 125 pounds. I suffered for about two months when I was advised to use Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I used two bottles of it and it gave me permanent relief," writes B. W. Hill, of Snow Hill, N. C. For sale by all dealers. m

Just an Amateur Farmer.

Every man likes to pretend to know something about farming, but this fellow carried it too far. Said he to his seatmate:

"Did you raise a good crop of wheat?"

"Fine."

"Oats do well?"

"Never better."

"Corn crop satisfactory?"

"Prime."

He should have stopped there, but he didn't. The next question gave him away.

"Do you plant much succotash?"

Minister Praises His Laxative

Rev. H. Stubenvoll, of Allison, Ia., in praising Dr. King's New Life Pills for constipation, writes: "Dr. King's New Life Pills are such perfect pills no home should be without them." No better regulator for the liver and bowels. Every pill guaranteed. Try them. Price 25c at James H. Williams. m

Professionally Considered.

"The Declaration of Independence is a wonderful document," said the patriotic citizen.

"Yes," replied the legal expert. "It's one of the ablest documents I ever saw. And the most remarkable thing is that, with all the ability it represents, nobody appears to have received a cent for drawing it up."

SAFETY DURING ELECTRIC STORM

Some Precautions To Be Taken To Avoid

BEING STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Electric Current Should Be Studied In Order To Understand It.

LIGHTNING RODS ALL RIGHT

The question of personal safety during a thunder storm is perhaps the most interesting to the majority of people. If in a building which is isolated in the open country or is higher than surrounding buildings in a group avoid chimney or other flues, open windows or draughts, especially warm currents of air directly below a high tower or flag pole, peak or angle of the structure. Keep away from overhead wires entering a building—although these are generally protected by lightning arresters, the current is not always "arrested."

If in the open, avoid trees, wire fences or poles, and if you happen to be the most prominent object in the landscape, as in an open field or on a beach, do not raise a steel rod umbrella or in fact any umbrella, as you may become a living lightning rod without an approved ground connection. If you should happen to be caught in such open space, with lightning discharges coming very close, as may be determined by the lessening intervals between flash and report, it is better to lie flat on the ground and risk a soaking than to offer a possible path for a discharge. The reason for this is that the body, being warm, offers a better conductor than the surrounding air, and but a few feet rise is necessary to attract lightning on flat ground.

Questions as to action of lightning in striking a building are frequently asked, and are somewhat difficult to answer without going into a lengthy discussion of the various kinds of discharges and other matters of a more or less technical nature. Let us, however, take the most frequent case, that of the ordinary "forked lightning," as seen at a distance, which at close range becomes the blinding flash, with the accompanying instantaneous crash, often causing disastrous results to life and property. This discharge is caused by a difference of potential between earth and cloud. The one is heavily charged with positive electricity, the other with negative, with the air between acting as an insulator. If the air is sufficient to keep apart the two currents, no discharge will take place except from one cloud to another. Now, as the storm moves on it comes closer to the earth or meets some object in its path which offers less resistance than the air—maybe a tree, pole, building, &c. The electrical pressure is so great that the slight decrease in resistance offered by such object is sufficient to cause the current to jump the intervening space and we have the destructive discharge. This explanation will be clearer to those who have seen the spark gap from coils used on automobiles.

Now let us assume that instead of the object before mentioned, such as a tree, pole, building, &c., we have a perfect conductor of electricity, as a steel building, steel tower or pole in electrical contact with the earth; the current passes through this into the earth silently, the pressure is relieved and in the great majority of cases there is no violent or explosive discharge.

Here is where the function of the lightning rod appears, similar to pipes tapping the tank, drawing off the water before dangerous pressure is brought to bear on the tank. A properly constructed lightning rod will, in the vast majority of cases, act in this manner by silently discharging the current from cloud to earth, thus preventing the violent discharge which we call the thunderbolt.—[Letter to New York Evening Sun.]

CAPITAL STREETS ALL LITTERED UP

Washington Visited By a
Cyclonic Storm

THREE MEN KILLED IN WRECK

Wind Created Havoc in the Streets, Sweeping Everything Before It.

PAPER MONEY WAS SCATTERED

Washington, July 31.—The national capital awakened to-day to begin a civic house-cleaning, and citizens and city employees alike joined hands in an effort to clean up the litter and debris in the streets, left in the wake of the cyclonic storm of yesterday.

No accurate estimate of the monetary damage done by the tempest is yet obtainable, the greatest havoc having been occasioned through the breaking and the leveling of many of the finest trees, which cannot be replaced. Late reports from outlying districts disclosed damage to property greater than was at first suspected.

The storm played many curious pranks in its brief career. A heavy moving van, waiting in the rear of a fashionable apartment house, was caught by the wind and turned on end, the three horses attached to it being suspended in the air by their collars and nearly strangled before they could be lowered to the ground. A number of persons endeavoring to leave a street car had a narrow escape from being run down by a heavy automobile which came tearing down the street impelled by the wind and without a chauffeur or other occupant.

Out of a blazing sky, under which the city was sweltering with the temperature at the 100 point, came the storm roaring from the north, driving a mass of clouds that cast a mantle of total darkness over the town. The gale, reaching a velocity of nearly seventy miles an hour, swept the streets clear, unroofed houses, tore detached small structures from their foundations, wrecked one office building, overturned wagons and carriages in the streets and swept Washington's hundred parks, tearing huge branches from trees and even uprooting old elms, the landmarks of a century.

Washington's well-kept streets, with their wealth of trees, were littered with broken foliage, roofs, debris and dead birds, as if a playful giant had carelessly swished his club up and down the city.

As the wind wreaked its havoc the rain came, and in five minutes the temperature from the 100 mark dropped to between 60 and 70. Then the rain turned to hail, and hail stones battered on roofs and crashed through skylights and windows.

For half an hour the city cowered, paralyzed, under the beating of the storm, every activity suspended. Trolley lines were halted and the Government departments suspended operations.

The wind wrecked a three-story brick office building occupied by the B. S. Saul Company, real estate dealers, and fifteen persons were carried down in the crash. W. E. Hilton, vice president of the real estate company; Thomas B. Fealey, 65 years old, a clerk, and an unidentified man who entered the building to try to rescue those caught in the wreck were taken from the ruins dead. Half a dozen were taken to hospitals seriously injured and half a dozen more were treated for slight injuries.

The neatly-kept lawns of the White House were devastated. Three huge elm trees, uprooted by the wind, were thrown bodily across the lawn and up to the very portico of the building, blocking the drives.

President Wilson was seated in the executive offices when the wind crashed through several windows in the White House proper. Secretary Tumulty hurried the President and Representative Korbly, of Indiana, with whom he was conferring, to a sheltered interior room, away from the searching lightning flashes.

The Capitol, set high above the city, caught the blunt of the wind, rain, hail and lightning. The Senate was in session when the hail swept down with a deafening roar, beating on the glass roof of the chamber. The tumult made further business impossible, and, hurrying to the Vice President's desk, Senator Kern megaphoned with his hands a motion to recess. The motion was put, and although the Senators could hear nothing, the Senate quit work for fifteen minutes in confusion.

Here and there throughout the city panic appeared. Horses, driven frantic by wind and hail, dashed through the streets in terror until they were stopped by collision with some other wind-striven object. In some of the office buildings and the Government departments panics were narrowly averted. At the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, where hundreds of women are employed, the wind, sweeping through a huge window, sent a storm of broken glass hurtling through the big pressroom.

Eight or ten women were cut by falling glass, and one printer, John Rhodes, received severe scalp wounds. The crash of glass swept panic through the big room. A hundred or more of the girls working as printers' assistants fainted and fell to the floor, and others dashed terror-stricken for the exits. For two hours the office was in an uproar.

While the excitement was at its height the wind caught a bundle of 1,000 $1 bills, half-finished, and swept it through the broken window. The bundle was ripped to pieces and the bills scattered far and wide. Director Ralph hurried out a force of scouts, and, after combing Potomac Park and the grounds of the Washington Monument for miles and finishing in the tidal basin nearby, all but $75 worth of the bills were recovered.

Another panic threatened at the Pension Office, where lightning ripped a corner of the room and crashed in scores of windows. Another lightning bolt tore a hole in the roof of the Post-Office Building and ripped open one face of the big clock in the tower.

The wind ripped fifteen heavy panels from the floor of the historic old Aqueduct bridge, and a horse and wagon crossing the structure were blown into the river. The driver escaped. Last night the police rounded up scores of strayed horses and wagons which had been deserted in the streets or had run away.

In the residence section of the city hundreds of houses were damaged, roofs torn off, cellars flooded, windows smashed and fences demolished. All through the night reports continued to come in of damage done in the suburbs and of persons injured in the path of the storm. For a circle of about four miles about the city the countryside was devastated, truck farms swept and crops ruined, suburban residences wrecked and trolley lines damaged.

The Weather Bureau said that the storm was a purely local heat disturbance over the city, and that its path covered only a few miles. The official records gave the average velocity of the wind as fifty-four miles, although at times it reached sixty-six miles an hour.

During the brief storm, 2.02 inches of rain fell.

A State Wide Invitation

Monster Barbecue to Be Given by J. N. Camden
at Versailles, Aug. 20, 1913

THIS meeting of farmers and their friends who are interested in the agricultural advancement of Kentucky is to be held that every one in the state may become acquainted and "rub elbows" with his neighbors and friends. It is to be a great farmers' convention, a place where, besides the "getting together," there will be speakers who really have something to say to the men who get their living from the soil.

In the past a barbecue, with its huge joints of smoking juicy meat and its bubbling steaming burgoo, meant political speechmaking and a warming of party spirit. This immense barbecue is a definite effort to give the farmers of the state a chance to meet and get acquainted and to hear some of the strongest speakers in the whole country discuss vital farm questions. These speakers will be brought to the meeting from the north, south, east and west, and, as they are to be limited to thirty minutes each, they will be sure to send their messages home in quick, short sentences. The list of speakers is about completed and will be given in full in the next article, which will be published soon. Kentucky is thoroughly aroused educationally, and this meeting is an outgrowth of this great wave of enthusiasm.

When your correspondent visited the Camden farm, just outside of Versailles, a few days ago he was shown the various points of interest that the visitor might wish to inspect. Competent men will be in charge of each farm department so that questions by visitors may be answered quickly.

In visiting the dairy barn, with its carefully selected herd of seventy-five Jerseys, it was pleasing to note that the barn had originally been used for

J. N. CAMDEN.

VERSAILLES, KENTUCKY.

TO THE FARMERS OF KENTUCKY.

For a quarter of a century the great problems of manufacturing and of transportation have been handled upon the advice of experts—men whose accurate and scientific knowledge extends to the minutest points.

In the past few years able men have realized that farming could be put upon the same basis—that instead of being of necessity a haphazard enterprise it is one of the most scientific businesses in the world—that it may be as accurate and as reliable as those processes of nature upon which it depends.

It has been realized also, that the principles of co-operation which have worked out such great things in the industrial world, may be used with equal effectiveness in the realms of agriculture.

To aid in the rapid spread of these ideas and principles seems to me to be a most useful and noble work, and one in which I would gladly have a part in Kentucky.

With this thought, I have decided to give and old fashioned barbecue at my home in Woodford County, near Versailles, on Wednesday, August 20th. It will be my aim to have matters along the lines I indicated discussed by some of the great agricultural experts of the country, and it will be my hope that this may give fresh impetus to the work in Kentucky for the farmers which is already so well begun.

Every Farmer, and every farmer's wife, and every one interested in better farming, in the state, who feels an interest in increasing the rewards of agriculture, and in bettering the conditions of farm life, is most cordially and urgently invited to be my guest on August 20th. This invitation is given in the spirit of good fellowship, and the desire to help, and all who accept it will be most warmly welcomed.

Very sincerely,

J. N. Camden.

houring tobacco. It was not a show barn at all, but a thoroughly sanitary barn, with the emphasis on the cow end of the enterprise. Out in the woods pasture there were several bunches of fine sleek steers, some of which were destined to help feed the hungry crowd on Aug. 20.

The woods pasture, with its giant oaks, poplars, walnuts and stately elms, is an ideal place to handle the 30,000 people who are expected to be the guests at the farm on the day of the barbecue. In one end of this pasture there is a perfect amphitheater for seating those who wish to hear the speakers and the band concert which is to be provided.

Things are happening in our dear old state—better schools are building, better roads are being laid, Chautauqua meetings for farmers are developing, and now a barbecue to which an invitation is given to each and every person who believes in the welfare and the future of the agriculture of the state is an assured fact. Men of vision are dreaming of a new Kentucky—a twentieth century Kentucky—and all the agencies mentioned are bringing the dream closer each day. Dreams do come true.

COULD SCARCELY WALK ABOUT

And For Three Summers Mrs. Vincent Was Unable to Attend to Any of Her Housework.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.—"I suffered for three summers," writes Mrs. Walter Vincent, of this town, "and the third and last time, was my worst."

I had dreadful nervous headaches and prostration, and was scarcely able to walk about. Could not do any of my housework.

I also had dreadful pains in my back and sides and when one of those weak, sinking spells would come on me, I would have to give up and lie down, until it wore off.

I was certainly in a dreadful state of health, when I finally decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I firmly believe I would have died if I hadn't taken it.

After I began taking Cardui, I was greatly helped, and all three bottles relieved me entirely.

I fattened up, and grew so much stronger in three months, I felt like another person altogether."

Cardui is purely vegetable and gentle-acting. Its ingredients have a mild, tonic effect, on the womanly constitution.

Cardui makes for increased strength, improves the appetite, tones up the nervous system, and helps to make pale, sallown cheeks, fresh and rosy.

Cardui has helped more than a million weak women, during the past 50 years. It will surely do for you, what it has done for them. Try Cardui today.

We believe we can now advance the assertion, with an appreciable degree of certainty, that the backbone of winter is broken.

The hay fever or ragweed season is now upon us, but it may be remarked in passing that the sufferers do not always scratch it by sitting too close to a grass widow.

The Bull Moose sure rid the Elephant at the Primary in Ohio county Saturday. The poor old critter reared and plunged some and tried to throw his rider, but it was no use. The proverbial death of the Elephant was hard.

They had a big wind in Washington one day last week. Of course wind is a common product of Washington, but this little breeze was a different sort and of a very serious nature. It was a sure enough cyclone and did much damage.

We have always looked upon the modern idea of "sex hygiene"—the proposition to teach it in schools—to be quite as objectionable as a "sermon to men only." They are both liable to involve immoral suggestions of sex relation which have little part in correct living. Sex hygiene is a matter which should be taught by parents only.

We hope there are no sore spots in any Democrat's heart over Saturday's primary. It was a fair, square method of choosing the nominees and no loyal Democrat should object to the result. Of course there were disappointments—that feature was inevitable—but every Democrat should abide the decision of the majority and give the ticket chosen his hearty support.

The Republican party, of Ohio county traded its birthright for a mess of pottage when it went into fusion arrangements with the Bull Moose leaders. And a bitter mess of pottage it was. No Republican candidate had a look-in at the nominations. The emblem and name of the Republican party was used to carry a crowd of Bull Moosers to temporary victory. The Republicans now see how it was done.

Last Saturday's primary election seemed just a little like a glimpse of bygone days, when the regular election occurred on the first Monday in August. But it was only in proximity of date—that was about all. The old familiar scenes of cider and gingercakes, red lemonade and "two-fer" cigars were absent, as were the jostling crowds at the voting tables. It is done differently now and, let us hope, in a much better way. But the old times, when the way every man voted was inscribed in an open book, are yet familiar remembrances.

Why wouldn't it be a good idea for the officials who have in charge the road fund of Ohio county to give an accounting once in awhile, in statistical form, as to just how this money is spent? There is very much complaint about the roads of the county and it is said that the manner of working them and keeping them in repair is haphazard and ineffective. This same complaint goes on from year to year. Other counties near us have good roads, comprising their main thoroughfares—why not Ohio county? Must we always bear this burden and this name for bad roads?

Upon page three of to-day's issue of The Herald will be found an announcement and an invitation to all farmers and their families of Kentucky to attend a mammoth barbecue to be given by Mr. J. N. Camden at his home in Woodford county, near Versailles, on Wednesday, August 20. The real purpose of this big meeting is to talk over matters pertaining to the advancement of farming interests in Kentucky, and notable farm experts will be present and speak. It has been intimated that Mr. Camden is doing this as a preliminary movement before introducing himself as a candidate for the United States Senate. Be that as it may, his barbecue is a worthy enterprise and deserving of the greatest success.

Some of the railroads of the country seem to be in rather hard lines, judging from resolutions adopted at the Third Annual Conclave of Mediators, recently in session at Chardon, Ohio. These resolutions set forth the assertion that "the railroads have been driven into tight straits by unreasonable legislative interference," &c., and solicited the aid of the newspapers to help them out. They were adopted by railroad employes representing 31 States—a very fitting compliment. Some of the railroads have not been as friendly towards the newspapers as in other days, and perhaps they are missing the generous help and co-operation which was extended by these journals before the latter were shut off from usual courtesies.

The old saying "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn," never loses its application in the affairs of the race. The antithesis of this proposition, man's goodness to his fellowman makes many happy lives, too often loses its power and practice. Many lives have been redeemed and erring feet set upon the highway of continuous rectitude by a simple kindly word or a little act of earnest solicitude. Down deep in the heart of every man, be he ever so lowly or apparently depraved, there rests the spark of the spirit of goodness, always responsive to kind treatment. Too often we blame a brother for something of less magnitude than many things in our own lives, if we would only admit them.

GOOD DEMOCRATIC VOTE CAST

Daviess County.

Owensboro, Ky., August 3.—Final returns from the primary election in Daviess county were not received until an early hour this morning. Henry Overstreet, of Daviess county, won the Democratic nomination for Senator from the Eighth district, composed of Daviess and McLean counties, over L. B. Tanner by nearly 200 votes. Griffin Kelly was nominated by the Democrats for Representative from the district in Daviess county outside of the city of Owensboro. Elmer Brown won the Democratic nomination for Representative in Owensboro by thirty votes over George V. Triplett, Jr., a nephew of former Gov. Beckham. R. L. Lancaster defeated W. W. Owen for the Democratic nomination for County Judge. James Weir defeated E. P. Taylor for County Court Clerk by thirty-eight votes. Herman A. Birkhead defeated his opponents for County Attorney. Bush J. Milton won the nomination for Sheriff; R. L. McFarland for School Superintendent; Bob Clark, Assessor; John D. Howard, Jailor; Dr. E. R. Pennington, Coroner; John D. Castlen, Surveyor, and P. M. Cole, Constable.

Mayor of Owensboro, Dr. J. H. Hickman; Police Judge, Yewell Haskins; City Attorney, Floyd L. Laswell.

The Republicans and Progressives did not have contests. Dr. H. Beard, of McLean county, is the Republican nominee for Senator, and T. L. Ellis is the Republican nominee for Representative from the city of Owensboro. George W. Jolly is the Progressive nominee for Representative from the city district.

McLean County.

Calhoun, Ky., Aug. 2.—In the primary election held to-day, the following are the Democratic nominees: Representative, G. H. Cary; County Judge, J. T. Higgs; County Clerk, John R. Granulated Sore Eyes Cured.

"For twenty years I suffered from a bad case of granulated sore eyes," says Martin Boyd, of Henrietta, Ky. "In February, 1903, a gentleman asked me to try Chamberlain's Salve. I bought one box and used about two-thirds of it and my eyes have not given me any trouble since." This salve is for sale by all dealers. m (Advertisement.)

OLATON.

Aug. 4, 1913.—The weather continues dry and hot. Crops are just about ruined in this section.

The protracted meeting at the M. E. Church at this place, which has been going on for two weeks, closes to-day. Had a successful meeting and quite a number of additions to the church.

Mr. Griffin Wade, who has been dangerously ill for the past few weeks, is improving.

Mr. D. B. Payton, of Crofton, is the guest of his mother here.

Mr. Ernest Young who has been in Kansas for the past few months, returned here last week.

Mrs. Sam Farris and her children, of Waxahachie, Tex., were the guests of Mr. T. W. Daniel's family last Tuesday.

Rev. Henry Burch and wife, of Friedalund, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Daniel last Sunday.

What is Best For Indigestion?

Mr. A. Robinson, of Drumquinn, Ontario, has been troubled for years with indigestion, and recommends Chamberlain's Tablets as "the best medicine I ever used." If troubled with indigestion or constipation, give them a trial. They are certain to prove beneficial. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price, 25 cents. For sale by all dealers. POLICE COURT

The following cases were tried in Police Judge C. M. Crowe's Court Monday, viz.:

Com'th. vs. Jack Collins, charged with shooting at another without wounding—held to answer and bond fixed at $100 and failing to execute bond, he was remanded to jail to await action of the next October grand jury.

Com'th. vs. Paul Carter, charged with violating local option law—continued until August 12.

Com'th. vs. Lon Griffin, charged with breach of the peace—continued to August 12.

Com'th. vs. Frank Collins and Lem Taylor, charged with drunkenness—pleas of guilty, and a fine of $2.50 and costs was assessed against each.

Com'th. vs. Dan Hines, charged with house-breaking—examining trial held and case under submission.

Queer Species of Mouse.
It is perhaps not generally known, but it is said that on the farm of Mr. Frank Tichenor, near Small-hous, this county, there is quite a family of the species of long-legged mouse called jerboa. This mouse is about the size of the common house mouse, but it has long hind legs, short forelegs and, in traveling, hops along like a diminutive kangaroo. It is an Old World dipodine rodent that is very rare in this section of country.

Finest Feed on the Market.
Arab Feed is the best Alfalfa Feed on the market. Contains no screenings or any foreign worthless material. Consists of whole oats, cracked corn, alfalfa and molasses. Four pounds is a full ration for a horse at hard work—twelve pounds daily. Almost all other alfalfa feed takes 16 pounds daily. Arab Feed is cheaper than corn and oats alone, and will reduce your hay bill at least one-half. Don't take my word for it—try one bag and be convinced. For sale by W. E. ALARMING MORTALITY
AMONG THE CHILDREN

Glasgow, Ky., Aug. 2.—Some twenty-five or thirty small children have died in Barren county alone during the last few weeks. Most of the children stricken do not live over twenty-four hours and in several instances have lived but five or six hours. Just what ails the little ones is not known, but the extreme warm weather is thought to be largely responsible for this large mortality.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGlocklin, of the southern part of the county, lost two small children this week. Willie Wilson, of this place, lost a 2-year-old child, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Duvall lost a 1-year-old boy. A 4-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Clark died this morning after only six hours' illness.

FOREIGN AUTO TRADE SHOWS GREAT INCREASE

Washington, Aug. 4.—Automobiles and automobile parts to the value of $40,000,000 were shipped from the United States in the past fiscal year as against $1,000,000 worth in 1903, a decade ago, according to figures by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Of last year's shipments $28,500,000 worth were in finished automobiles. Canada was the largest buyer, having taken 7,200 cars valued at $9,200,000. England bought almost 4,000 valued at $3,000,000; then came British Oceania, South America, British South Africa, Germany, British East Indies, France and Russia in the order named. Less than $2,000,000 worth of automobiles were imported at an average price of $2,300, while in 1907 more than $4,000,000 worth were brought in at an average price of $3,400.

MEXICAN SHOTS WERE FIRED AT R. L. BARNES

The following item concerning a former resident of Ohio county will be of interest to his many friends here:

Brownsville, Tex., July 26.—What is believed to have been an attempt to kill R. L. Barnes, special agent of the Department of Justice, was made here this afternoon, six shots being fired at him from the Mexican side of the river. Mr. Barnes was playing tennis in Fort Brown, just across the river from Santa Cruz, Mexico, when six rifle shots were fired at him, none of which struck him.

Barnes has been active in causing several arrests in connection with smuggling arms and ammunition to the rebels, as well as for violation of the neutrality laws in other respects, and this is believed was the reason for his attempted assassination.

BASEBALL.

On last Wednesday afternoon at East End Park the second teams of Hartford and McHenry crossed bats and various and sundry budding baseball geniuses enthusiastically took advantage of the opportunity to show their prowess. But unfortunately it proved to be an unlucky day for the local boys and they went down in defeat to the tune of 13 to 8. The visitors played a rather pretty game and the Hartford lads did some good work, but were handicapped by several weak places in the lineup and the lack of practice.

On Saturday afternoon at the local ball lot our embryo Oh Mag-nates tried conclusions with a picked team from Beaver Dam and, showing an entire reversal of form as compared with their last disastrous exhibition, took the measure of the lads from the neighboring burg in an 8 to 7 engagement. Both teams deserve praise for the uniformly classy showing of each and every member.

Rockport defeated Graham in a hotly contested battle Sunday by the score of 4 to 3. Both teams played brilliant ball throughout the contest. We received this news too late to give particulars of the game.

SPECIAL NOTICE

OBITUARIES, RESOLUTIONS

OF RESPECT, &c.

The Hartford Herald has adopted a new rule in regard to Obituaries, Resolutions of Respect, Cards of Thanks, &c., whether written at the behest of lodges, churches or individuals, and that is, we shall charge at the rate of two cents per line for all such articles, except obituary poetry, which will be one cent per word, straight. This is the smallest rate we charge for anything and is only one-fifth of our regular rate. The amount, in cash or stamps, must accompany each article, or it will not be printed. Six words average a line in ordinary reading and every separate character or initial letter counts as a word. The heading and the signature both count one line each, even if they are only a word or two. All obituary poetry, straight through, one cent per word.

Contributors please remember.

FORMER GOV. PATTERSON ISSUES A STATEMENT

Of a Very Remarkable Nature
And Makes a Humiliating Confession.

Nashville, Tenn., July 31.—Former Governor M. R. Patterson, who was arrested in a raid in a house of ill-fame Friday evening, crushed and deeply mortified over the occurrence, last night was joined by his wife in a statement to the public, and in breaking the silence which he had steadfastly maintained, admitted that he was in a stupor from drink at the time of the incident.

The statement says: "I am leaving for home to-night with Mrs. Patterson, who has been with me for two days, and before going I wish to express the deepest appreciation of us both to friends, and those who were not my friends in the past, for their kind and generous sympathy.

"For my own part in this unfortunate affair, I have no excuse to offer, and have borne the condemnation of my own conscience for the humiliation I unwittingly caused those I dearly love.

"My mission in Nashville was not political, as has been erroneously assumed, but purely legal, and while waiting the return of Mr. Hall, of Nashville, from Red Boiling Springs, who had in his possession certain papers which I was to examine, I began to drink, and continued until all sense of responsibility was gone. While asleep in a partial stupor and alone in a room in a house of bad repute, I was arrested with no knowledge of the cause and without a chance to communicate with friends.

"However gross my delinquency, I want the world to know that it is my last offense, and the weakness will never be repeated which brought upon me and mine this deep humiliation and gave to my enemies an opportunity for revenge. "MALCOLM R. PATTERSON."

Mrs. Patterson's statement follows: "My heart and my sympathies are all with my husband, and I love him with all the strength of my soul. He has been shamefully, cruelly treated and I stand with him in his hour of trouble.

"MRS. M. R. PATTERSON."

MOZAIC AND MODERN LAW AS TO HEALTHFULNESS

A collection of facts have been gathered by a writer in Harper's Weekly going to prove that the sanitary laws of Moses were not only on a line with the modern rules of hygiene, but in some cases in advance of them. The Jew, thousands of years before Christ, settling in a semi-tropical country, was forbidden to eat pork or shellfish, and milk was designated as a source of contagion. In the Talmud a method of slaughtering animals was prescribed which is acknowledged to-day in our markets as the most sanitary. Five thousand years before Koch gave to the world the results of his researches in bacteriology the Mosaic law pointed out the danger to man from tuberculosis in cattle, but did not forbid infected poultry as food. It was only a few years ago that German specialists discovered that fowl tuberculosis was harmless to man. The Mosaic law also enforced the isolation of patients with contagious diseases and the burial of the dead outside all cities. These hints the Gentile world did not fully accept until a century or two ago. The wise lawgiver prescribed not only fasting at certain periods of the year, but the removal of whole families in summer out to camps, where for a time they could live close to nature. Many of the laws of Moses were prescriptions intended for the health of both mind and body.

tagious diseases and the burial of the dead outside all cities. These hints the Gentile world did not fully accept until a century or two ago. Many of the laws of Moses were prescriptions intended for the health of both mind and body.

THE LAST STRAW.

Oh, I could stand the sizzling heat and wear a sweet seraphic smile, and I could wait on joyous feet, as though my soul contained no bile, and I could bless the summer day, the brazen sun, the sky of blue, if no one held me up to say: "Well, is this hot enough for you?" I am a gentle, patient guy, I suffer long before I fight; all day, without a groan I fry, without complaint I stew all night; but Bersefk blood gets in my eyes, and I see red instead of blue, when some cheap skate comes up and cries: "Well, is this hot enough for you?" The worm will turn at last, they say, and I, though far from being bold, sometimes go forth and slay and slay, and strew my dead across the world. On glory fields I thus have basked, on fields that were a crimson dew; 'twas when 10,000,000 chumps had asked: "Well, is it hot enough for you?" Ah yes, it's hot enough for me, but I could smile to beat the band, and broil and sweat and melt with glee, if that old question could be canned. The sun might bake me to a crisp, and I'd be glad the long day through, if no one ever stopped to hiss. "Well, is it hot enough for you?"—[By Walt Mason.]

Most Famous Saying.

"What is the most famous saying ever made by man?" an editor asked.

Some thought that Caesar, some thought that Socrates, some that Lincoln, some that Nelson, had said the most memorable thing, but finally the palm was awarded to Euclid, the mathematician.

Euclid went to Alexandria to teach Ptolemy Soter, the king of Egypt, mathematics. Ptolemy plodded at his problems a week or two and then asked Euclid impatiently if there was not some special, shorter way by which he could be taught.

"Sire," Euclid answered, "there is no royal road to learning."

Sometimes my Conscience says, says he,
"Don't you know me?"
And I, says I, sneered through and through,
"Of course I do.
You air a nice chap ever' way,
I'm here to say!
You make me cry—you make me pray,
And all them good things thata-way—
That is, at night. Where do you stay
Durin' the day?"

And then my Conscience says, on't more,
"You know me—shore?"
"Oh, yes," says I, a-trimblin' faint.
"You're jes' a saint!
Your ways is all so holy-right,
I love you better ever night
You come around—'tel plum day-light,
When you air out o' sight!"

And then my Conscience sort o' grits
His teeth and spits
On his two hands and grabs, of course,
Some old remorse,
And beats me with the big butt-end
O' THAT thing—'tel my closest friend
'Ud hardly know me. "Now," says he,
"Be keerful as you'd orte be
And ALLUS think o' ME!"

"Jarred" the Collector.

City Tax Collector Col. E. L. Motley got a "jar" recently that has almost made him "a raving militant suffragette." A few mornings ago while comfortably ensconced behind his big roll-top desk, smoking his after-breakfast cigar, a well-known woman appeared at his office to pay her taxes. The city's part of her estate amounted to almost $50. The check was written and the woman departed. Later another woman paid her taxes by check, and which amounted to $80. That afternoon the genial Colonel took occasion to look over his checks upon making a deposit, and one can imagine the "jar" he received when he read on the bottom of both these checks those immortal words, "Taxation without representation is tyranny."—[Bowling Green Times-Journal.]

McCREARY'S PORTRAIT TO ADORN TEMPLE WALLS

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 2.—A portrait of Gov. McCreary will adorn the walls of the marble Temple of Peace at Washington. Mr. McCreary has been asked by Secretary of State Bryan to send his portrait to be hung in the Temple. Gov. McCreary, then Senator, was author of the bill providing for the Pan-American Conference, and was a member of the Pan-American Commission. When Andrew Carnegie offered to donate $750,000 toward the million-dollar temple if the twenty-one republics represented would raise the other $250,000, Gov. McCreary assisted in the enterprise, and his portrait, with others who did pioneer work in the Pan-American movement, will be assembled in the building, which is headquarters of the Bureau of American Republics and a place of welcome for the citizens of the American republics in Washington. The Governor notified Secretary Bryan that he will send the portrait, and has written to a New York photographer for one he had taken there recently.

WHISTLING BUOYS

They Are Simple In Principle and Certain In Operation.

PLAYTHINGS OF THE WAVES.

The Rise and Fall of the Water Give Birth to Their Penetrating Shrieks. Placing and Removing Them Are Tasks Fraught With Deadly Peril.

Sea travelers up and down our coast lines often hear a strange, weird sound to port or starboard, a sort of compound of moan and shriek, at once soft and insistent, subdued and penetrating. It is the call of the whistling buoy to the man at the helm, warning him of shoal or dangerous place.

These whistling buoys, which are enormous masses of iron, often weighing several tons, are as simple in principle as they are certain in operation. The buoy proper consists of a huge pear shaped bulb, little end up, on top of which is a powerful whistle, protected from accidental blow or collision by a framework of iron bars, and an air intake. Below and projecting far down into the water is an open tube of metal. The whole thing is secured in position with an anchor and a chain, which last is long enough for the depth of the water in which the buoy is placed to permit the free movement of the mass up and down.

When a wave lifts the buoy up in the air the water in the tube, acting as a piston, sucks in air through the intake. It is confined in the bulb of the buoy by a simple valve which prevents its egress through the intake. When the waves drop the buoy in the trough of the waves the water in the tube presses up on the confined air and compresses it. It finds exit through the whistle, which thus sounds its warning note.

It might be supposed that, having no mechanism but a valve, such buoys, once put in position, could be left there for an indefinite period of time. But the sea has strange ways with her playthings, and even if the necessity of constant painting of the buoy to protect it from the action of sea water was not existent it would still be necessary to keep a watch on these signals and to take them up and replace them rather often, for the big tube projecting down into the water is a great attraction to barnacles and seaweed, and not infrequently these marine growths so interfere with the action of the buoy as to keep it silent in ordinary weather and to dim its voice in bad weather.

It then becomes necessary to "work" a new whistler in position, which is a regular part of the duty of a lighthouse tender or buoy tender, of which vessels there are many in the service.

When a buoy is to be "worked" the tender repairs to a yard or station and by means of her crane lifts on deck the freshly painted and thoroughly repaired new buoy which is to replace that one which is either silent or which has served its allotted time and is now due for replacement.

There is nothing difficult about this. It is getting the enormously large and unwieldy mass of iron overboard and taking on board the one which is in the water which causes the difficulty. The very waves which are necessary to the successful operation of the buoy make it hard to manage at the end of a crane on board a comparatively small vessel.

When a buoy tender goes to "work" a whistler she clears her deck of everything else but the buoy, which is secured with chocks and chains against the roll of the vessel. The old buoy is approached cautiously, within a couple of hundred feet, and the new buoy is allowed to slide overboard rather than picked up and placed in the water, the crew guiding it by guy ropes, while the powerful crane lifts just enough to permit the buoy to move. With the vessel slowly rolling from side to side on the slow seas of even a quiet day—the good days are purposely picked for this work—the mass of freshly painted iron with its long tube presents potentialities for evil which must be closely watched. Let the buoy but get clear of the deck and the fall tackle get jammed and there would come into being a three ton pendulum with an iron fall thirty-six feet long capable of smashing the boat to bits and certainly of sweeping broken bones under about the deck with no more effort than if they were so many flies.

But, if getting the new buoy overboard is dangerous work, hauling the old one in is more so. The buoy is first secured by good seamanship, managing the steam vessel, with a rope through the iron cage at its top. Working from this, ropes, chains and "springs" of heavy cables are brought into play and the whole very cautiously lifted and secured as it comes over the side. It is allowed to swing free not at all, save perhaps for an instant, just as it is laid flat on the deck, and then, apparently in the very face of death, a dozen men spring at the mass, ready to swing with the waves and to demolish them and thrust huge billets of wood underneath its sides to hold it long enough for lashings to make it secure. The boat being delayed to the anchor chain then cautiously backs away to raise the anchor, and there is a general scampering away from the cable while this is being done, as should it break it would be like having a couple of cannon balls come tearing along the deck.

However, so skillful are these handlers of heavy masses of iron on an unstable keel that it is rare that an accident happens.—O. H. Claudy in Scientific American.

HEREDITY AND THE EYES.

Blue or Gray Eyed Parents Cannot Have Brown Eyed Children.

Since blue and probably gray eyed parents have no brown pigment in the outer surface of the iris they cannot transmit brown to that portion of their children's eyes. This absent characteristic may be one that has been lost or it may never have been acquired. It is known in hereditary language as a recessive. Hence, to repeat, two recessives produce in their offspring only their recessive condition.

The hereditary behavior of brown eye color, however, is very different. In brown eyes actual pigment occurs in the iris. Here there is something accumulated to hand on down to subsequent generations. The amount that can be transmitted, however, depends on one's own hereditary history as well as that of one's consort. If both of Smith's parents belong to brown eyed strains, then Smith can have only brown eyes. And since Smith has been given, as it were, a double dose of brown his eyes will be dark brown.

Smith will have, in his turn, only brown eyed children, whatever may be the color of his wife's eyes. In the language of hereditary, Smith's brown eye color dominates over blue or gray. When Smith's brown eye color has been derived from one parent only, then his own eyes will tend to be lighter in color and only half of his germ cells will have the potentiality for making brown eyes. Hence, if he marries a blue or gray eyed wife, only half of his children will have brown eyes, and a light brown, too, because of two generations of dilution. In case Smith's wife also has brown eyes derived from one of her parents only, then three out of four of their children will have brown eyes, but only one of the three will get a double dose of brown; hence Smith's brown eyed children will not all transmit brown in the same degree.

Thus it is possible for a brown eyed parent to have one-half or one-quarter of his children blue or gray eyed. But it is never possible for two blue or gray eyed parents to have brown eyed children.—Independent.

FREEZING WATER.

Conditions That Cause the Bursting or Cracking of Ice.

Ice never bursts from freezing. As soon as the liquid of which it is composed is frozen solid expansion ceases. The cracking or bursting of ice is brought about in this way: When water is subjected to extreme cold ice crystals will gradually form on its surface until the same are covered with a thin coat of what appears to be wet snow. From this outer coating of ice crystals all subsequent freezing goes downward, the ice thickening according to the degree of cold. The water which is being converted into ice now begins to expand, creating a pressure upon the unfrozen water below. This pressure is both downward and outward, and in case the water under observation is in a vessel the sides and bottom of the receptacle supply the resistance.

As the freezing process continues the pressure upon the confined water and air in the interior of the bulk increases until something yields. If the vessel be stronger than the ice stratum that has formed over the surface the layer of ice will be bent upward at the center, that being the weakest point, on account of the fact that the outer edges of the congealed mass are frozen fast to the sides of the vessel in which the experiment is being made. In this condition the center of the ice continues to rise or bulge until it bursts from the resistance of the water below. Could the vessel be tapped from below and the water drawn off no amount of freezing would be sufficient to crack or bulge the ice layer on the surface.

STYLES IN HANDCUFFS.

The Old Time "Twisters" Were Instruments of Torture.

It is in the Aeneid that we find the first reference to the handcuff. Vergil informs us that Proteus was, by means of such a device, fettered and rendered helpless by Aristaeus.

It is of record that about 400 years before the Christian era an army of victorious Greeks came upon several chariots of Carthaginians which, among other things, contained a large number of handcuffs.

Our term "handcuff" is derived from the Anglo-Saxon "handcop." In the Saxon days these handcuffs were used in the case of nobles, while "footcops" were reserved for kings. The terms employed in the fourteenth century were "shack bolt" and "swivel manacle," and the specimens thereof which have come down to us show that the instruments were as cumbersome as their names.

Only two kinds of handcuffs were employed previously to the nineteenth century. One, the flexible, was very similar to that now in use, and the other, which was called "the figure eight," was utilized to restrain violent prisoners. This "figure eight" was greatly dreaded, since severe pain was occasioned the fettered person did he attempt to move a limb.

There used to be a form of handcuff, now happily abolished, called the "twister." This consisted of a chain with handles at each end. This chain was placed about the wrists; the handles were brought together and twisted until a firm grip was obtained. The least struggle on the part of the unfortunate captive resulted in the greatest suffering, for the chains bit deeply into his flesh. A similar form of handcuff was that called by the French "la ligote."

In some parts of Europe there is still used an exceedingly primitive form of handcuff. It consists of a V-shaped piece of metal, wherein the wrists are inserted, the open ends being drawn together by means of a cross hook, which, however, must be maintained taut during the whole time the captive is held.

The most ingenious and effective of all handcuffs is that used in the United States and, indeed, adopted by the police of most civilized countries. It is much lighter and much less clumsy than the old flexible handcuff and is not painful to the wearer.—Harper's Weekly.

A ROYAL INSULT.

Lord Brougham Bided His Time and Repaid George IV.

With all of his knowledge and talent Lord Brougham was eccentric and slovenly in his personal habits. While he was a young and comparatively unknown barrister he was asked to a dinner at which the prince regent presided. Mr. Brougham's hands needed washing. The regent's keen eyes rested on them. He beckoned to a waiter and gave him an order which the man heard with a scared face, and then going out he speedily returned with a ewer full of water, soap and a towel.

He carried them to Brougham, presenting them with the prince regent's compliments. The barrister instantly withdrew and never afterward referred to the insult.

Years later, when the prince, now king, tried to divorce his wife, Brougham as her defender so vehemently sustained her cause that she triumphed. The king's name was not mentioned during the trial, though the nation knew that he was secretly the prosecutor. Brougham in his speech declared that he saw in the distance the nameless persecutor of his innocent client, quoting with terrific effect Milton's words:

The other shape,
If shape it might be called, ••• black it stood as night,
Fierce as ten furies, terrible as hell,
And shook a dreadful dart; what seemed his head
The likeness of a kingly crown had on.

George IV. felt seriously this savage attack. The nation sided with the queen, and her defender had paid his debt with interest.

Correcting a Quotation.

In his book, "A Wanderer in Florence," E. V. Lucas furnishes a new reading for that quotation about the leaves on the brooks of Vallombrosa, though he credits it to a cousin across the pond. Mr. Lucas visited Vallombrosa and, describing the extortionate rates of the hotels there, tells the story: A departing American was eyeing his bill with a rueful glance as we were leaving. "Milton had it wrong," he said to me, with the freemasonry of the plucked, for I knew him not. "What he meant was 'thick as thieves.'"

CELEBRATION IN LOUISVILLE

KENTUCKY METROPOLIS WILL COMMEMORATE INCIDENTS IN WAR OF 1812.

HUNDRED YEARS OF PEACE

Battles Which Kentuckians Won and Massacres in Which They Suffered Will Be Reproduced in Fireworks and Shams on Land and Water.

A week's celebration, which Louisville declares will be the greatest and most spectacular in the history of celebrations in America, will be held in the Kentucky metropolis for seven days, commencing September 29, and will be the climax of a series of celebrations held in a dozen lake cities, to commemorate the sufferings and victories of American arms in the War of 1812 as well as to focus attention on the achievements of a century of peace. The crucial and decisive engagement of the War of 1812 was the battle of the Thames, fought and won on Canadian soil October 5, 1813. The series of celebrations, which will be held in America will close in Louisville, October 5, 1913, and just one hundred years from the hour that Col. Richard M. Johnson, afterward Vice President of the United States, slew the Indian chief Tecumseh, President Woodrow Wilson will probably be addressing a crowd of 100,000 people in Louisville, the home of many of the troops who fought in the battle of the Thames.

Kentucky was assigned the closing and choice date of the celebration because of the distinguished part played by the Kentuckians in the War of 1812. Kentucky began to play her part in the generation before the war opened, when she sent Gen. George Rogers Clark and other Louisville soldiers into the hostile wilderness which they wrested from the French and Indians and out of which was afterward carved the great States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Kentucky was the last state which could have benefited from the war, inasmuch as it was brought about chiefly by the British impressment of American seamen, none of whom were Kentuckians, whereas should war prevail the unfriendly Indians on the frontier of the border states could be expected to commit atrocities from which Kentucky had already received the name "Dark and Bloody Ground." However, it was chiefly Henry Clay, in the Kentucky Congressional Delegation that forced President Madison to declare the second war with Great Britain, and Kentucky furnished forty per cent of her fighting population to go into that war, and at the close of the war of the listed dead more than eighty per cent were the names of Kentuckians. Kentucky troops to a man were massacred at the River Raisin and again at the first attack on Fort Meigs.

When the time came to man Perry's new-built ships, he selected Kentuckians unaccustomed to the motion of the lakes to mount into the insecure rigging and from that vantage point, with their practiced eye and unerring aim, fired down upon the British and won the battle of Lake Erie. Practically every officer and soldier in the battle of the Thames was a Kentuckian, excepting alone Gen. William Henry Harrison, who, however, held his commission as Major-General from the Kentucky legislature. The charge of the Fort Mifflin Hope, about the briefest, most terrible and most heroic attack narrated in the annals of warfare, consisted exclusively of Kentucky soldiers when nineteen of them and their twenty horses went down to certain death. It was the Kentucky sharpshooters who are credited with having won the battle of New Orleans after the war had in reality closed.

Kentucky proposes to reproduce most of these scenes of the war of 1812 in the Louisville celebration. The battle of the Thames will be reproduced on land in Cherokee Park, topographically situated similar to the land on which was fought the battle of the Thames, and every detail of the sham battle will be as nearly historically correct as can be done. Louisville will take advantage of her magnificent river frontage in order to celebrate suitably the battle of Lake Erie. The actual battle will be depicted in a gorgeous entertainment of fireworks and all morning and all afternoon preceding the engagement there will be boat races, life saving feats and aquatic sports. A historical pageant, depicting various scenes of the war of 1812 will also include a magnificent floral parade, such as made Louisville famous a year ago, and will include civic and military parades many miles in length. Drills and exercises by 10,000 costume school children will be held in the First Regiment Armory; a mammoth reception will be given to the descendants of Kentucky soldiers and sailors of the war of 1812, and a series of costumed balls will be given in their honor.

Exceedingly low railroad rates, probably as low as one cent per mile, from a distance of several hundred miles of Louisville, will be granted and efforts are being made to secure to other Kentucky points rates from Louisville for the week immediately following the celebration, to enable former Kentuckians who return home to visit the celebration, to visit also their old Kentucky homes.

Prevents Nose Rot in Sheep and Murrain in Cattle

I have given your remedy to my stock for three years, and have found it to be excellent for all kinds of diseases, and an especially effective cure and preventative of Murrain in cattle. At one time my neighborhood was infected with this disease, and many cattle died near me, while my cattle never had the least symptom of it. Your remedy is also a boon in raising sheep. I have a herd of seventy-five to one hundred that always have access to it, and none of them ever had nose rot, so common among sheep.

LOOK ON THE FIRST PAGE

Or the wrapper around your Herald. You will find a little yellow slip. It has printed on it your name and a date after it. The date shows when your subscription expires or when it did expire. This is all the book we keep of your subscription account, and there is no excuse for you not knowing just how you stand with THE HERALD. We are trying to get our subscription list on a strictly cash-in-advance basis, so as to avoid trouble and misunderstanding. We do not want to force the paper upon anybody against their will, but we want all that is due us. Please give this matter your very prompt attention. Look at that little yellow slip containing your name. It will tell you just what you need to know, without any explanation from us. If it is wrong in any way, let us know. Anyhow, please pay us what is due. It takes much money to run a good newspaper nowadays, hence we must keep our subscription accounts collected up. Either come to The Herald office and pay the arrears and a year in advance, or, if you are not coming to town soon, send us a check or post-office money-order for the amount due. We will appreciate it and it will make us think you really want the paper.

Thrice a Week Edition New York World

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly

No other Newspaper in the World Gives so Much at so Low a Price.

This is a time of great events and you will want the news accurately and promptly. The Democrats, for the first time in sixteen years, will have the Presidency and they will also control both branches of Congress. The political news is sure to be of the most absorbing interest.

The World has long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that is to be found in a first-class daily.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE HARTFORD HERALD both together for one year for only $1.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

156 PAPERS A YEAR FREE

Marvelous Offer Made By Atlanta Tri-Weekly Constitution.

BIG COMBINATION OFFER!

The Tri-Weekly Constitution is almost a daily paper; it contains all the news of the world worth knowing; pictures of people, places and events mentioned in the news, as well as cartoons, and funny pictures; fiction stories, written by the best story writers of America, departments of particular interest to farmers, women and children—in short, it is the most wonderful paper in the entire United States, at its price, $1.00 a year.

The publishers are preparing to spend thousands of dollars during the coming year in new features for the amusement, instruction and entertainment of Tri-Weekly Constitution readers, and to introduce this great paper to persons who have never read it, they offer to give a year's subscription—156 papers—free of charge to each person who sends in a club of five yearly subscribers with $5.00.

The subscription price of the Tri-Weekly Constitution is only $1.00 per year, and with each subscription goes a choice of one from a splendid list of handsome premiums, many of which you could not buy at retail for less than a dollar each. Write to-day and send names of six of your neighbors for a sample copy of the Tri-Weekly Constitution and ask for our list of premiums and clubbing offers. A post card will be enough. Address, TRI-WEEKLY CONSTITUTION, Atlanta, Ga.

The Tri-Weekly Constitution and The Hartford Herald both one year (four papers a week) for only $1.75. This includes any one of the splendid premiums, as for instance, pair of 8-inch Shears, Boys' Parlor Knife, Vest Pocket New Testament, Library Wall Chart, Handy Package containing 291 useful articles, &c. Send your subscriptions to the Hartford Herald.
